Select options correctly showing the change of voice in each given sentence; from active to passive or from passive to active.

Vamsi said, "We are playing a match today".

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

Vamsi said that they were playing a match that day.

Vamsi said that they have been playing a match that day.

Vamsi said that they were playing a match today.

Vamsi said that they are playing a match today.

The correct answer is:

Vamsi said that they are playing a match today.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in active voice: "We are playing a match today" (the subject "we" is performing the action).
- To change it to passive voice, the focus shifts to the action's recipient (none in this case) or the action itself. However, since the original sentence is in first person plural ("we"), it's not possible to directly convert it to passive voice. Instead, we can change the pronoun to third person plural ("they") and keep the verb tense consistent, resulting in "they are playing a match today".

Note: The other options change the verb tense or add unnecessary words, making them incorrect choices.

Select options correctly showing the change of voice in each given sentence; from active to passive or from passive to active.

The mother said, "My son ! Don't waste your time".

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

The mother advised her son not to waste his time.

The mother asked her son that not to waste his time.

None

The mother ordered her son not to waste his time.

The correct answer is:

The mother advised her son not to waste his time.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in active voice: "My son! Don't waste your time" (the subject "mother" is giving advice).
- To change it to passive voice, we need to rephrase the sentence to focus on the recipient of the action (the son). However, since the original sentence is an imperative sentence (giving advice or instruction), it's more suitable to convert it to a declarative sentence in active voice, where the mother is still the subject, but the verb changes to "advised".
- The other options are incorrect because:
  - Option 2: The phrase "that not to waste" is grammatically incorrect.
  - Option 3: "None" is incorrect because the sentence can be changed to active voice.
  - Option 4: While "ordered" is a possible verb choice, it changes the tone and meaning of the original sentence, making it less suitable than "advised".

Spot the Error: The gambling stall was a grand success because almost everyone tired his luck.

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

No Error

The gambling stall

tired his luck

because almost everyone was a grand success

The correct answer is:

tired his luck

Explanation:

- The error is in the phrase "tired his luck". The correct phrase should be "tried their luck".
- "Tired" means feeling exhausted or sleepy, whereas "tried" means making an effort or attempt.
- The correct sentence should read: "The gambling stall was a grand success because almost everyone tried their luck."

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: There is an error in the sentence.
- Option 2: The phrase "The gambling stall" is not the error.
- Option 4: The phrase "was a grand success" is not the error.

Select options correctly showing the change of speech in a given sentence - from direct to indirect or from indirect to direct.

They said to him, "We are leaving for Chennai tomorrow."

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

They told him that they were leaving for Chennai the next day.

They told him that they will be leaving for Chennai the day after.

None

They said to him that they are leaving for Chennai the day after.

The correct answer is:

They told him that they were leaving for Chennai the next day.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in direct speech: "We are leaving for Chennai tomorrow" (the exact words spoken by the person).
- To change it to indirect speech, we need to:
  - Change the verb tense to past tense (were leaving instead of are leaving)
  - Change the time expression to "the next day" (instead of "tomorrow")
  - Replace "said to him" with "told him" (a more common reporting verb for indirect speech)
- The other options are incorrect because:
  - Option 2: The verb tense is incorrect (should be "were leaving" instead of "will be leaving")

- Option 3: "None" is incorrect because the sentence can be changed to indirect speech
- Option 4: The verb tense and time expression are incorrect (should be "were leaving" and "the next day" instead of "are leaving" and "the day after")

Choose the correct tense.

The news _____ not updated timely.

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

have are

is were

The correct answer is:

were

Explanation:

- The sentence should read: "The news were not updated timely."
- The subject "news" is a plural noun, so the verb "were" is the correct choice to agree with it.
- However, it's worth noting that in modern English, "news" is often treated as an uncountable noun, and the singular verb "was" is also commonly used. But in this case, "were" is the more traditional and grammatically correct choice.

Alternatively, you could also rephrase the sentence to use a singular verb:

- "The news has not been updated timely." (using the present perfect tense)
- "The news was not updated timely." (using the simple past tense)

But among the original options, "were" is the best choice.

it is 'is' ?

Yes, you are correct. The correct answer is indeed "is".

- The sentence should read: "The news is not updated timely."
- The subject "news" is a singular noun, and "is" is the correct verb to agree with it.

In this case, "is" is used to describe a general or permanent state of affairs, implying that the news is not typically or habitually updated in a timely manner.

Thank you for correcting me!

This girl wrote an essay so well that her teacher was exceedingly pleased with her

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

wrote an essay

so well that

No Error

This girl

her teacher was exceedingly pleased with her

Here's the correct answer:

No Error

Explanation:

- The sentence is grammatically correct and conveys a clear meaning.
- The phrase "so well" is an adverbial phrase modifying the verb "wrote", indicating the manner in which the essay was written.
- The sentence structure is correct, with a main clause ("This girl wrote an essay") and a subordinate clause ("that her teacher was exceedingly pleased with her") introduced by the subordinating conjunction "that".

No errors are present in the sentence, so the correct answer is indeed "No Error".

Choose the correct tense.

Neither of the painting _____ sold.

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

was have been

are were

The correct answer is:

were

Explanation:

- The subject "Neither of the paintings" is a plural noun phrase, even though it refers to only two paintings.
- The verb "were" agrees with the plural subject, indicating that neither of the paintings has been sold.
- The sentence is in the present perfect tense, but the verb "were" is used instead of "has been" because the subject is plural.

Note: If the sentence were "Neither of the paintings has been sold", it would imply that one or both of the paintings might have been sold, but we don't know which one. The original sentence "Neither of the paintings were sold" emphasizes that neither painting has been sold.

it is was

I apologize, you are correct. The correct answer is indeed "was".

- The subject "Neither of the paintings" is a singular noun phrase, because "neither" indicates that only one of the paintings is being referred to.
- The verb "was" agrees with the singular subject, indicating that neither of the paintings has been sold.

The correct sentence is: "Neither of the paintings was sold."

Thank you for correcting me!

Choose the correct tense.

The quality of products _____ over time.

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

were degraded

has been degrading

are degrading

have degrading

The correct answer is:

has been degrading

Explanation:

- The sentence describes a continuous process that started in the past and continues up to the present moment.
- The present perfect continuous tense "has been degrading" indicates that the degradation of product quality began at some point in the past and is still ongoing.
- This tense is appropriate because it shows a connection between the past and present, emphasizing that the degradation is a continuous process.

The other options are incorrect because:

- "Were degraded" is past simple, indicating a completed action, which doesn't fit the context.
- "Are degrading" is present simple, which doesn't convey the ongoing nature of the process.
- "Have degrading" is not grammatically correct.

Select options correctly showing the change of voice in each given sentence; from active to passive or from passive to active.

He said to me, "You can never get my help".

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

He told me that I can never get my help.

He told me that I can never get his help.

He told me that I could never get his help.

He told me that I could never get my help.

The correct answer is:

He told me that I could never get his help.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in direct speech: "You can never get my help" (the exact words spoken by the person).
- To change it to indirect speech, we need to:
  - Change the pronoun "you" to "I" (since the speaker is now reporting the sentence)
  - Change the verb tense to past tense (could instead of can)
  - Change the pronoun "my" to "his" (since the speaker is now reporting the sentence, and the help belongs to the original speaker)
- The correct sentence in indirect speech is: "He told me that I could never get his help."

Note: The other options are incorrect because they either:

- Don't change the pronoun "my" to "his" (options 1 and 4)
- Don't change the verb tense to past tense (option 2)

Spot the Error: There are no conducted tours for tourist to visit all the important places

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

for tourist to visit all the

No Error

There are important places

no conducted tours

The correct answer is:

for tourist to visit all the

Explanation:

- The error is in the phrase "for tourist". It should be "for tourists" (plural noun).
- The corrected sentence is: "There are no conducted tours for tourists to visit all the important places."

The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 2: There is an error in the sentence.
- Option 3: The phrase "There are" is not the error.
- Option 4: The phrase "no conducted tours" is not the error.

Note: The error is a simple pluralization mistake, where "tourist" (singular) should be "tourists" (plural) to agree with the noun "places".

Choose the correct tense.

The wise leader and politician _____ assassinated.

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

are has been

have been

have had been

The correct answer is:

has been

Explanation:

- The subject "The wise leader and politician" is a singular noun phrase, referring to one person.
- The verb "has been" agrees with the singular subject, indicating that the leader was assassinated at some point in the past.
- The present perfect tense "has been" is used to describe a completed action in the past that has a connection to the present.

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- "are" is present simple, which doesn't fit the context of a past event like assassination.
- "have been" is present perfect plural, which doesn't agree with the singular subject.
- "have had been" is not grammatically correct.

However, it's worth noting that the correct sentence would be "The wise leader and politician was assassinated" (simple past tense), as the event of assassination is a completed action in the past.

Spot the Error: I wish I was there.

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

No Error

was

I wish

there

I

The correct answer is:

was

Explanation:

- The error is in the verb tense. The correct sentence should be "I wish I were there."
- The verb "were" is the correct form of the subjunctive mood, which is used to express a hypothetical or uncertain situation.
- The sentence expresses a desire to be in a place where the speaker is not, so the subjunctive mood is appropriate.

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: There is an error in the sentence.
- Option 3: The phrase "I wish" is not the error.
- Option 4: The word "there" is not the error.
- Option 5: The word "I" is not the error.

The corrected sentence is: "I wish I were there."

Choose the correct tense.

Sita or her brothers _____ to be blamed.

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

are

is

was has

The correct answer is:

is

Explanation:

- The subject of the sentence is "Sita or her brothers", which is a singular noun phrase.

- The verb "is" agrees with the singular subject, indicating that the blame is attributed to one person or group.
- The sentence is in the present simple tense, which is used to express a general or permanent truth.

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- "are" is plural, which doesn't agree with the singular subject.
- "was" is past simple, which doesn't fit the context of a general truth.
- "has" is present perfect, which doesn't fit the context of a simple attribution of blame.

The corrected sentence is: "Sita or her brothers is to be blamed."

However, it's worth noting that a more common way to express this idea would be: "Sita or her brothers are to blame." (present simple tense with a plural verb)

it is are

I apologize, you are correct. The correct answer is indeed "are".

- The subject "Sita or her brothers" is a plural noun phrase, because "or" connects two nouns and the resulting phrase is treated as plural.
- The verb "are" agrees with the plural subject, indicating that the blame is attributed to either Sita or her brothers.

The corrected sentence is: "Sita or her brothers are to be blamed."

Thank you for correcting me!

Select options correctly showing the change of voice in each given sentence; from active to passive or from passive to active.

She said to me, "Where have you gone all these days???

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

She said to me where I had gone all these days.

She asked me where had I gone all these days.

She asked me where had I gone all those days.

She asked me where I had gone all those days.

The correct answer is:

She asked me where I had gone all those days.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in direct speech: "Where have you gone all these days?"
- To change it to indirect speech, we need to:
  - Change the verb "said" to "asked" (since the original sentence is a question)
  - Change the pronoun "you" to "I" (since the speaker is now reporting the question)
  - Change the verb tense to past perfect "had gone" (to maintain the same time reference)
  - Change "these" to "those" (to maintain the same time reference)
- The correct sentence in indirect speech is: "She asked me where I had gone all those days."

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: The verb "said" is incorrect, it should be "asked".
- Option 2: The word order is incorrect, it should be "where I had gone".
- Option 3: The word "these" should be changed to "those" to maintain the same time reference.

Select options correctly showing the change of voice in each given sentence; from active to passive or from passive to active.

The boy said to the Principal, "Why can't it be correct?"

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

None

The boy asked the Principal why it could not be correct.

The boy asked the principal why could not it be correct.

The boy asked the principal that why it could not be correct.

The correct answer is:

The boy asked the Principal why it could not be correct.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in direct speech: "Why can't it be correct?"
- To change it to indirect speech, we need to:
  - Change the verb "said" to "asked" (since the original sentence is a question)
  - Change the pronoun and verb accordingly
  - Change the sentence structure to indirect question
- The correct sentence in indirect speech is: "The boy asked the Principal why it could not be correct."

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: There is a correct option available.
- Option 2: The word order is incorrect, it should be "why it could not be correct".
- Option 3: The word "that" is not needed, and the word order is incorrect.

Also, note that the change of voice is from direct speech (active) to indirect speech (passive), but the sentence structure changes to accommodate the indirect question.

Select options correctly showing the change of voice in each given sentence; from active to passive or from passive to active.

She said to me, "May I come in. Sir?"

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

I said to her that she may come in.

She ordered me to come in.

She sought the permission from me to come in.

I ordered her to come in.

The correct answer is:

She sought the permission from me to come in.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in direct speech: "May I come in, Sir?"
- To change it to indirect speech, we need to:
    - Change the verb "said" to "sought permission" (since the original sentence is a polite request)
    - Change the pronoun and verb accordingly
    - Change the sentence structure to indirect speech
- The correct sentence in indirect speech is: "She sought the permission from me to come in."

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: The sentence is changed to a statement, rather than a request.
- Option 2: The sentence is changed to an order, rather than a request.
- Option 4: The sentence is changed to an order given by the speaker, rather than a request made by the original speaker.

Also, note that the change of voice is from direct speech (active) to indirect speech (passive), but the sentence structure changes to accommodate the indirect request.

Identify the tense used in the following sentence. “When I reached the bookstore, all the copies had already been sold.”

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

Present perfect tense

Present indefinite tense

Past indefinite tense

Past perfect tense

The correct answer is:

Past perfect tense

Explanation:

- The sentence describes an action that occurred before another action in the past.
- The phrase "had already been sold" indicates that the selling of the copies was completed before the speaker reached the bookstore.
- The past perfect tense is used to describe an action that was completed before another action in the past.

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: Present perfect tense is used to describe an action that started in the past and continues up to the present moment.
- Option 2: Present indefinite tense is used to describe a habitual or general truth.
- Option 3: Past indefinite tense is used to describe a completed action in the past, but it does not indicate that one action was completed before another.

The sentence "When I reached the bookstore, all the copies had already been sold" is an example of the past perfect tense, which shows that the selling of the copies was completed before the speaker's arrival at the bookstore.

Select options correctly showing the change of voice in each given sentence; from active to passive or from passive to active.

She said to the boy, "Where did you learn classical music?"

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

She asked the boy where he would learn classical music.

She asked the boy where he had learnt classical music.

She asked the boy where he learnt classical music.

She asked the boy where he learns classical music.

The correct answer is:

She asked the boy where he had learnt classical music.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in direct speech: "Where did you learn classical music?"
- To change it to indirect speech, we need to:
  - Change the verb "said" to "asked" (since the original sentence is a question)
  - Change the pronoun "you" to "he" (since the speaker is now reporting the question)
  - Change the verb tense to past perfect "had learnt" (to maintain the same time reference)
- The correct sentence in indirect speech is: "She asked the boy where he had learnt classical music."

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: The verb tense is incorrect, it should be past perfect "had learnt" instead of future simple "would learn".
- Option 3: The verb tense is incorrect, it should be past perfect "had learnt" instead of past simple "learnt".
- Option 4: The verb tense is incorrect, it should be past perfect "had learnt" instead of present simple "learns".

Also, note that the change of voice is from direct speech (active) to indirect speech (passive), but the sentence structure changes to accommodate the indirect question.

Select options correctly showing the change of voice in each given sentence; from active to passive or from passive to active.

The boy said to her, "Don't wait for the bus".

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

The boy said to her not to wait for the bus.

The boy said to her to wait for the bus.

The boy said to her that not to wait for the bus.

The boy told her not to wait for the bus.

The correct answer is:

The boy told her not to wait for the bus.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in direct speech: "Don't wait for the bus"
- To change it to indirect speech, we need to:
  - Change the verb "said" to "told" (since the original sentence is a command or advice)
  - Remove the quotation marks and change the sentence structure to indirect speech
- The correct sentence in indirect speech is: "The boy told her not to wait for the bus."

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: The sentence structure is incorrect, it should be "told her not to" instead of "said to her not to".
- Option 2: The sentence changes the meaning, it should be "not to wait" instead of "to wait".
- Option 3: The sentence structure is incorrect, it should be "told her not to" instead of "said to her that not to".

Also, note that the change of voice is from direct speech (active) to indirect speech (passive), but the sentence structure changes to accommodate the indirect command or advice.

Select the correct active/passive form of the given sentence.

Manu will tell her later.

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

She will tell later by Manu.

She will be tell later.

She will be told later by Manu.

She will be tell later by Manu

The correct answer is:

She will be told later by Manu.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in active voice: "Manu will tell her later"
- To change it to passive voice, we need to:
  - Change the subject to the recipient of the action (her -> she)
  - Change the verb to the passive form (will tell -> will be told)
  - Add the agent (by Manu)
- The correct sentence in passive voice is: "She will be told later by Manu."

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: The sentence structure is incorrect, it should be "will be told" instead of "will tell".
- Option 2: The sentence is grammatically incorrect, it should be "will be told" instead of "will be tell".

- Option 4: The sentence is grammatically incorrect, it should be "will be told" instead of "will be tell".

In passive voice, the focus is on the receiver of the action (she), rather than the doer (Manu).

Select options correctly showing the change of voice in each given sentence; from active to passive or from passive to active.

The teacher said to the girl, "What is your name?"

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

The teacher asked the girl what her name was.

The teacher asked the girl what was her name.

The teacher asked the girl what is her name.

The teacher said to the girl what her name is/was.

The correct answer is:

The teacher asked the girl what her name was.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in direct speech: "What is your name?"
- To change it to indirect speech, we need to:
  - Change the verb "said" to "asked" (since the original sentence is a question)
  - Change the pronoun "your" to "her" (since the speaker is now reporting the question)
  - Change the verb tense to past simple "was" (to maintain the same time reference)

- The correct sentence in indirect speech is: "The teacher asked the girl what her name was."

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 2: The word order is incorrect, it should be "what her name was" instead of "what was her name".
- Option 3: The verb tense is incorrect, it should be past simple "was" instead of present simple "is".
- Option 4: The sentence structure is incorrect, it should be "asked" instead of "said", and "what her name was" instead of "what her name is/was".

Also, note that the change of voice is from direct speech (active) to indirect speech (passive), but the sentence structure changes to accommodate the indirect question.

Choose the correct tense.

They _____ into their cars and drove away.

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

has got got have got gets

The correct answer is:

got

Explanation:

- The sentence describes a completed action in the past (they got into their cars and drove away).

- The verb "got" is in the past simple tense, which is used to describe a completed action in the past.
- The sentence structure is in the past simple tense, so the correct verb form is "got".

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: "has got" is present perfect tense, which is used to describe an action that started in the past and continues up to the present moment.
- Option 3: "have got" is present perfect tense, which is used to describe an action that started in the past and continues up to the present moment.
- Option 4: "gets" is present simple tense, which is used to describe a habitual or general truth, not a completed action in the past.

The correct sentence is: "They got into their cars and drove away."

Select options correctly showing the change of voice in each given sentence; from active to passive or from passive to active.

She asked the child, "Have you taken your meal?"

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

She asked the child if he/she would take his/her meal.

She asked the child if he/she had taken his/her meal.

She asked the child if he/she will take his/her meal.

She asked the child if he/she has taken his/her meal.

The correct answer is:

She asked the child if he/she had taken his/her meal.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in direct speech: "Have you taken your meal?"
- To change it to indirect speech, we need to:
    - Change the verb "asked" to remain the same (since it's already in the correct form)
    - Change the pronoun "you" to "he/she" (since the speaker is now reporting the question)
    - Change the verb tense to past perfect "had taken" (to maintain the same time reference)
- The correct sentence in indirect speech is: "She asked the child if he/she had taken his/her meal."

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: The verb tense is incorrect, it should be past perfect "had taken" instead of future simple "would take".
- Option 3: The verb tense is incorrect, it should be past perfect "had taken" instead of future simple "will take".
- Option 4: The verb tense is incorrect, it should be past perfect "had taken" instead of present perfect "has taken".

Also, note that the change of voice is from direct speech (active) to indirect speech (passive), but the sentence structure changes to accommodate the indirect question.

Select options correctly showing the change of voice in each given sentence; from active to passive or from passive to active.

She says to me, "We are going out."

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

She said that they are going out.

She said that they were going out.

She tells that they are going out.

She tells that they were going out.

The correct answer is:

She tells me that they are going out.

(Note: The original sentence is "She says to me", so the correct answer should be in the present simple tense)

However, among the given options, the closest correct answer is:

She said that they were going out.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in direct speech: "We are going out"
- To change it to indirect speech, we need to:
  - Change the verb "says" to "said" (since the original sentence is in the present simple tense, but the reporting verb is in the past simple tense)
  - Change the pronoun "we" to "they" (since the speaker is now reporting the statement)
  - Change the verb tense to past simple "were going" (to maintain the same time reference)
- The correct sentence in indirect speech is: "She said that they were going out."

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: The verb tense is incorrect, it should be past simple "were going" instead of present simple "are going".
- Option 3: The verb "tells" is in the present simple tense, but the original sentence is in the present simple tense, so it should be "says" instead of "tells".
- Option 4: The verb tense is incorrect, it should be past simple "were going" instead of past simple "were going" with the incorrect verb "tells".

The correct answer is: She said that they were going out.

Here's why:

Original Sentence Analysis: The original sentence is in the active voice and uses direct speech. "She" is the subject performing the action of "saying".

Required Transformation: We need to convert this into indirect speech, which naturally leads to a shift towards the passive voice.

Explanation of Changes:

"Says to me" becomes "said": When converting direct speech to indirect speech, the reporting verb (says) usually shifts to the past tense (said).

"We are going out" becomes "they were going out":

The pronoun "We" changes to "they" because we're reporting what she said about herself and others.

The tense changes from present continuous ("are going") to past continuous ("were going") to maintain consistency with the past tense reporting verb "said." This is called backshifting.

Why other options are incorrect:

She said that they are going out: Incorrect tense agreement. The reporting verb is in the past tense ("said"), so the reported speech should also reflect the past ("were going").

She tells that they are going out: Incorrect tense of the reporting verb. It should be "said," not "tells" when reporting past speech.

She tells that they were going out: Incorrect tense of the reporting verb, similar to the previous option.

Thank you for the detailed explanation. You are absolutely right, the correct answer is indeed "She said that they were going out."

Your breakdown of the original sentence and the required transformation is spot on. The key points being:

- The shift from direct speech to indirect speech leads to a shift towards the passive voice
- The reporting verb "says" becomes "said" in the past tense
- The pronoun "we" changes to "they" to reflect the speaker's perspective
- The tense changes from present continuous to past continuous ("were going") to maintain consistency with the past tense reporting verb "said"

And your explanation of why the other options are incorrect is also clear and concise.

I'll make sure to provide more detailed explanations in the future. Thank you for helping me improve!

Spot the Error: As our room was upstairs, so we didn't hear him

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

didn't hear him

No error

As our room was upstairs, so we

Elaborate explanation:

The correct answer is: upstairs, so we

Explanation:

- The sentence "As our room was upstairs, so we didn't hear him" contains an error in the use of the conjunction "so".
- The word "so" is used to indicate a consequence or a result, but in this sentence, it is not necessary and makes the sentence grammatically incorrect.
- The correct sentence would be: "As our room was upstairs, we didn't hear him" or "Because our room was upstairs, we didn't hear him".

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: "didn't hear him" is not the error, it's a correct part of the sentence.
- Option 2: "No error" is incorrect, there is an error in the sentence.
- Option 3: "As our room was" is not the error, it's a correct part of the sentence.

Select options correctly showing the change of speech in a given sentence - from direct to indirect or from indirect to direct.

The teacher said, "The Earth is a planet."

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

The teacher said the Earth is a planet.

The teacher said that the Earth was a planet.

The teacher said that the Earth will be a planet.

The teacher said that the Earth is a planet.

The correct answer is:

The teacher said that the Earth is a planet.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in direct speech: "The Earth is a planet."
- To change it to indirect speech, we need to:
  - Add the conjunction "that" after the reporting verb "said"
  - Keep the same verb tense, present simple "is", since the statement is a general truth and not dependent on time
- The correct sentence in indirect speech is: "The teacher said that the Earth is a planet."

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: Missing conjunction "that" and incorrect sentence structure.
- Option 2: Incorrect verb tense, "was" is past simple and changes the meaning.
- Option 3: Incorrect verb tense, "will be" is future simple and changes the meaning.

In indirect speech, the conjunction "that" is often used to introduce the reported statement, and the verb tense is adjusted according to the context. In this case, the statement is a general truth, so the present simple tense "is" remains the same.

Select options correctly showing the change of voice in each given sentence; from active to passive or from passive to active.

He said to Sheela, "you have committed a mistake here".

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

None

He told Sheela that she committed a mistake here.

He told Sheela that she would commit a mistake there.

He told Sheela that she had committed a mistake there.

The correct answer is:

He told Sheela that she had committed a mistake there.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in active voice and direct speech: "you have committed a mistake here"
- To change it to passive voice and indirect speech, we need to:
  - Change the reporting verb "said" to "told"
  - Change the pronoun "you" to "she"
  - Change the verb tense to past simple "had committed" (to maintain the same time reference)
  - Change the adverb "here" to "there" (to maintain consistency with the changed context)
- The correct sentence in passive voice and indirect speech is: "He told Sheela that she had committed a mistake there."

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: No change in voice or speech.
- Option 2: Incorrect verb tense, "committed" is present simple, should be past simple "had committed".
- Option 3: Incorrect verb tense, "would commit" is future simple, changes the meaning.

In passive voice, the focus shifts from the doer (He) to the receiver (Sheela), and the verb tense changes accordingly.

Spot the Error: I look forward to meet you

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

you

No Error

I look forward

to meet

The correct answer is:

to meet

Explanation:

- The sentence "I look forward to meet you" contains an error in the verb form.
- The correct sentence should be: "I look forward to meeting you"
- The verb "meet" should be in the gerund form (verb + -ing) "meeting" to correctly follow the preposition "to"

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: "you" is not the error, it's the correct object pronoun.
- Option 2: "No Error" is incorrect, there is an error in the sentence.
- Option 3: "I look" is not the error, it's the correct subject-verb phrase.

The correct sentence is: "I look forward to meeting you"

Choose the correct tense.

The Chief guest, with his wife, _____.

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

have left left

has left

are leaving

The correct answer is:

has left

Explanation:

- The subject of the sentence is "The Chief guest", which is a singular noun.
- The verb "has left" is in the present perfect tense, which is used to describe an action that occurred in the past and has a connection to the present.
- The presence of "with his wife" suggests that the Chief guest and his wife are leaving together, but the verb "has left" still agrees with the singular subject "The Chief guest".

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: "have left" is plural, it should be "has left" to agree with the singular subject.
- Option 2: "left" is past simple, it doesn't indicate a connection to the present.
- Option 4: "are leaving" is present continuous, it suggests an ongoing action, which is not the intended meaning.

The correct sentence is: "The Chief guest, with his wife, has left".

Select options correctly showing the change of voice in each given sentence; from active to passive or from passive to active.

He said, "Children go to school every day".

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

None

He said that children go to school every day.

He said children go to school every day.

He said that children go to school that day.

The correct answer is:

He said that children go to school every day.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in active voice and direct speech: "Children go to school every day"
- To change it to passive voice and indirect speech, we need to:
  - Add the conjunction "that" after the reporting verb "said"
  - Keep the same verb tense, present simple "go", since the statement is a general truth and not dependent on time
  - The sentence remains in active voice, but the speech changes from direct to indirect
- The correct sentence in indirect speech is: "He said that children go to school every day."

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: No change in voice or speech.

- Option 2: Missing conjunction "that" and incorrect sentence structure.
- Option 3: Incorrect adverb, "that day" changes the meaning to a specific day, instead of "every day".

In this case, the sentence remains in active voice, but the speech changes from direct to indirect, with the addition of the conjunction "that".

Question 31

Report a problem

Select options correctly showing the change of speech in a given sentence - from direct to indirect or from indirect to direct.

The boy said, "I have pain in my right leg".

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

The boy said he had pain in his right leg.

The boy said that he has pain in his right leg.

The boy said that he had pain in his right leg.

The boy said that I have pain in my right leg.

The correct answer is:

The boy said that he had pain in his right leg.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in direct speech: "I have pain in my right leg"
- To change it to indirect speech, we need to:

- Add the conjunction "that" after the reporting verb "said"
- Change the pronoun "I" to "he" (since the boy is reporting his own experience)
- Change the verb tense to past simple "had" (to maintain the same time reference)

- The correct sentence in indirect speech is: "The boy said that he had pain in his right leg."

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: Missing conjunction "that" and incorrect sentence structure.
- Option 2: Incorrect verb tense, "has" is present simple, should be past simple "had".
- Option 4: Incorrect pronoun, "I" should be changed to "he" since the boy is reporting his own experience.

In indirect speech, the pronouns and verb tenses are adjusted to match the reporting verb and context.

Select options correctly showing the change of speech in a given sentence - from direct to indirect or from indirect to direct.

He said to my father, "I read the Hindu every day.

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

He told to my father that he read the Hindu every day.

He told my father that he reads the Hindu every day.

None.

He told my father that he read the Hindu every day.

The correct answer is:

He told my father that he read the Hindu every day.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in direct speech: "I read the Hindu every day"
- To change it to indirect speech, we need to:
    - Change the reporting verb "said" to "told" (since the sentence is now in indirect speech)
    - Remove the preposition "to" after "told" (since it's not necessary in indirect speech)
    - Change the pronoun "I" to "he" (since the speaker is reporting someone else's statement)
    - Keep the same verb tense, present simple "read", since the statement is a general truth and not dependent on time
- The correct sentence in indirect speech is: "He told my father that he read the Hindu every day."

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: Incorrect use of preposition "to" after "told", and incorrect verb tense "read" should be in the past simple "read" or present simple "reads" depending on the context.
- Option 2: Incorrect verb tense, "reads" is present simple, should be past simple "read" to maintain the same time reference.
- Option 3: "None" is incorrect, as the sentence can be changed to indirect speech.

Select the correct active/passive form of the given sentence.

The police beat a number of protestors last night.

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

A number of protestors were being beaten by the police last night.

A number of protestors had been beaten by the police last night.

A number of protestors has been beaten by the police the night before.

A number of protestors were beaten by the police last night.

The correct answer is:

A number of protestors were beaten by the police last night.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in active voice: "The police beat a number of protestors last night"
- To change it to passive voice, we need to:
  - Make the object "a number of protestors" the subject of the sentence
  - Use the verb "were beaten" (past simple passive)
  - Add the preposition "by" to indicate the doer of the action "the police"
- The correct sentence in passive voice is: "A number of protestors were beaten by the police last night."

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: Incorrect verb form, "were being beaten" is past continuous passive, which changes the meaning.
- Option 2: Incorrect verb form, "had been beaten" is past perfect passive, which changes the meaning.
- Option 3: Incorrect verb form, "has been beaten" is present perfect passive, which changes the meaning, and also incorrect time reference "the night before".

The correct passive form maintains the same time reference and meaning as the original active sentence.

Spot the Error: can you explain me the grammar?

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

me the grammar

both can you and explain

No Error

Can you explain

The correct answer is:

both can you and explain

Explanation:

- The sentence "can you explain me the grammar" contains an error in the word order and verb form.
- The correct sentence should be: "Can you explain the grammar to me?"
- The error is in the use of "can you" (correct) followed by "explain me" (incorrect), it should be "explain" (correct) followed by "to me" (correct)

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: "me the grammar" is incorrect word order and incorrect object pronoun.
- Option 3: "No Error" is incorrect, there is an error in the sentence.
- Option 4: "Can you" is correct, but the sentence is incomplete and doesn't show the full error.

The correct sentence uses the correct word order and verb form, with "explain" followed by "to me".

Spot the Error: Every man, woman and child is now aware of the terrible consequences of the habit of smoking

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

of the terrible consequences of the habit of smoking

Every man, woman and child

No Error

is now aware

The correct answer is:

Every man, woman and child

Explanation:

- The sentence "Every man, woman and child is now aware of the terrible consequences of the habit of smoking" contains an error in subject-verb agreement.
- The subject of the sentence is "Every man, woman and child", which is a plural subject (referring to multiple individuals).
- The verb "is" should be changed to "are" to agree with the plural subject.

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: "of the terrible consequences of" is a prepositional phrase and not the error.
- Option 2: "the habit of smoking" is a noun phrase and not the error.
- Option 4: "is now aware" is the incorrect verb form, but not the only error.

The correct sentence would be: "Every man, woman and child are now aware of the terrible consequences of the habit of smoking".

Select the correct active/passive form of the given sentence.

Has the villa been occupied by them?

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

Have they occupied the villa?

Had they occupied the villa?

Did they occupied the villa?

Do they occupied the villa?

The correct answer is:

Have they occupied the villa?

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in passive voice: "Has the villa been occupied by them?"
- To change it to active voice, we need to:
  - Make the doer of the action "them" the subject of the sentence
  - Change the verb form to "have occupied" (present perfect active)
- The correct sentence in active voice is: "Have they occupied the villa?"

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 2: "Had they occupied the villa?" is past perfect active, which changes the time reference.
- Option 3: "Did they occupied the villa?" is incorrect verb form, "did" is past simple, and "occupied" should be "occupy".
- Option 4: "Do they occupied the villa?" is incorrect verb form, "do" is present simple, and "occupied" should be "occupy".

The correct active form maintains the same time reference (present perfect) as the original passive sentence.

Select options correctly showing the change of voice in each given sentence; from active to passive or from passive to active.

He said to me, "I shall show you the way now".

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

He told me that he should show me the way then.

He said that he should show me the way now.

He said to me that he should show me the way then.

None

The correct answer is:

He told me that he would show me the way then.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in active voice and direct speech: "I shall show you the way now"
- To change it to passive voice and indirect speech, we need to:
  - Change the reporting verb "said" to "told"
  - Change the pronoun "I" to "he" (since the speaker is reporting someone else's statement)
  - Change the verb tense to past simple "would show" (to maintain the same time reference)

    - Change the adverb "now" to "then" (to maintain consistency with the changed context)

- However, the given options do not include the correct sentence. The closest option is: He told me that he should show me the way then.

Note: This option is not entirely correct, as "should show" is not the exact equivalent of "would show" in this context.

The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 2: "He said that he should show me the way now" is incorrect, as it maintains the original verb tense and adverb.
- Option 3: "He said to me that he should show me the way then" is incorrect, as it maintains the original reporting verb and incorrect verb tense.
- Option 4: "None" is incorrect, as the sentence can be changed to passive voice and indirect speech.

What do tenses as the form of a verb help to determine?

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

Both time and state of action

The state of the action

The time of the action

The number of action

The correct answer is:

Both time and state of action

Explanation:

- Verb tenses help to determine both the time and state of an action.

- Time refers to when the action takes place (past, present, or future).
- State of action refers to the stage or status of the action (e.g., ongoing, completed, or repeated).

The main verb tenses in English are:

- Present (e.g., I go)
- Past (e.g., I went)
- Future (e.g., I will go)
- Present perfect (e.g., I have gone)
- Past perfect (e.g., I had gone)
- Future perfect (e.g., I will have gone)

Each tense helps to convey a specific time and state of action, allowing speakers and writers to express complex ideas and relationships between actions.

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 2: "The state of the action" is only half correct, as tenses also indicate time.
- Option 3: "The time of the action" is also half correct, as tenses also indicate state.
- Option 4: "The number of action" is incorrect, as tenses do not indicate the number of actions.

Select options correctly showing the change of voice in each given sentence; from active to passive or from passive to active.

The officer said to the clerk, "File these papers immediately".

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

None

The officer said to the clerk to file these papers immediately.

The officer ordered the clerk to file those papers immediately.

The officer ordered to the clerk to file those papers immediately.

The correct answer is:

The officer ordered the clerk to file those papers immediately.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in active voice and direct speech: "File these papers immediately"
- To change it to indirect speech and passive voice, we need to:
  - Change the reporting verb "said" to "ordered" (to maintain the same level of authority)
  - Change the pronoun "these" to "those" (to maintain consistency with the changed context)
  - Change the sentence structure to passive voice, but in this case, the sentence is already in a form of passive voice, as the focus is on the action "file" rather than the doer.
- The correct sentence in indirect speech and passive voice is: "The officer ordered the clerk to file those papers immediately."

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: "None" is incorrect, as the sentence can be changed to indirect speech and passive voice.
- Option 2: "The officer said to the clerk to file these papers immediately" is incorrect, as it maintains the original reporting verb "said" and incorrect sentence structure.
- Option 4: "The officer ordered to the clerk to file those papers immediately" is incorrect, as it has an incorrect preposition "to" before "the clerk".

Spot the Error: The father as well as the sons were mysteriously missing from the house

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

The father

No Error

mysteriously missing

mysteriously missing

as well as the sons were

The correct answer is:

as well as the sons were

Explanation:

- The sentence "The father as well as the sons were mysteriously missing from the house" contains an error in subject-verb agreement.
- The subject of the sentence is "The father as well as the sons", which is a compound subject connected by "as well as".
- The verb "were" should be changed to "was" to agree with the singular subject "The father", since "as well as" does not make the subject plural.

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: "The father" is not the error, it's part of the subject.
- Option 2: "No Error" is incorrect, there is an error in subject-verb agreement.
- Option 3: "mysteriously missing" is not the error, it's a correct adverbial phrase.
- Option 4: "mysteriously missing" is not the error, it's a correct adverbial phrase.

The correct sentence would be: "The father, as well as the sons, was mysteriously missing from the house".

Spot the Error: The father as well as the sons were mysteriously missing from the house

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

The father

No Error

mysteriously missing

mysteriously missing

as well as the sons were

The correct answer is:

The father as well as the sons were

Explanation:

- The sentence "The father as well as the sons were mysteriously missing from the house" contains an error in subject-verb agreement.
- The subject of the sentence is "The father as well as the sons", which is a compound subject connected by "as well as".
- Since "as well as" is used to connect the subjects, the verb "were" should agree with the plural subject "sons", making the sentence grammatically correct.

However, a more conventional way to phrase the sentence would be:

"The father and the sons were mysteriously missing from the house"

Or, if you want to use "as well as":

"The father, as well as the sons, was mysteriously missing from the house" (note the singular verb "was" to agree with "The father")

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: "The father" is not the error, it's part of the subject.
- Option 2: "No Error" is incorrect, there is an error in subject-verb agreement or sentence structure.
- Option 3: "mysteriously missing" is not the error, it's a correct adverbial phrase.
- Option 4: "mysteriously missing" is not the error, it's a correct adverbial phrase.

Select options correctly showing the change of speech in a given sentence - from direct to indirect or from indirect to direct.

My mother said to me, "Don't disturb me.??

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

My mother told me not to disturb her.

My mother told me not to disturb me.

My mother told me to disturb her.

My mother said that not to disturb me.

The correct answer is:

My mother told me not to disturb her.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in direct speech: "My mother said to me, 'Don't disturb me.'"
- To change it to indirect speech, we need to:
  - Change the reporting verb "said" to "told"
  - Remove the quotation marks and the comma
  - Change the pronoun "me" to "her" (since the speaker is reporting someone else's statement)
  - Change the sentence structure to indirect speech
- The correct sentence in indirect speech is: "My mother told me not to disturb her."

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 2: "My mother told me not to disturb me" is incorrect, as the pronoun "me" should be changed to "her".
- Option 3: "My mother told me to disturb her" is incorrect, as the original sentence says "Don't disturb me", not "disturb me".

- Option 4: "My mother said that not to disturb me" is incorrect, as the sentence structure is incorrect and the pronoun "me" should be changed to "her".

Select options correctly showing the change of voice in each given sentence; from active to passive or from passive to active.

He said to her, "Alas! He lost alt his property."

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

He exclaimed with sorrow that he lost all his property.

He exclaimed with sorrow that he had lost all his property.

He exclaimed with sorrow that he has lost all his property.

He told her that he lost all his property.

The correct answer is:

He exclaimed with sorrow that he had lost all his property.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in active voice and direct speech: "Alas! He lost all his property."
- To change it to indirect speech and passive voice, we need to:
  - Change the reporting verb "said" to "exclaimed" (to maintain the same level of emotion)
  - Add the phrase "with sorrow" to maintain the same tone
  - Change the sentence structure to indirect speech
  - Change the verb tense to past perfect "had lost" (to maintain the same time reference)

- The correct sentence in indirect speech and passive voice is: "He exclaimed with sorrow that he had lost all his property."

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: "He exclaimed with sorrow that he lost all his property" is incorrect, as it maintains the original verb tense.
- Option 3: "He exclaimed with sorrow that he has lost all his property" is incorrect, as it changes the verb tense to present perfect.
- Option 4: "He told her that he lost all his property" is incorrect, as it maintains the original reporting verb "told" and verb tense.

Select the correct active/passive form of the given sentence.

She handles all tasks efficiently.

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

All tasks are being handled efficiently by her.

All tasks have been handled efficiently by her.

All tasks were handled efficiently by her.

All tasks are handled efficiently by her.

I'm glad you asked!

The correct answer is:

All tasks are handled efficiently by her.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in active voice: "She handles all tasks efficiently."
- To change it to passive voice, we need to:
  - Make the object "all tasks" the subject of the sentence
  - Change the verb "handles" to "are handled" (present simple passive)
  - Add the phrase "by her" to indicate the doer of the action
- The correct sentence in passive voice is: "All tasks are handled efficiently by her."

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: "All tasks are being handled efficiently by her" is incorrect, as it changes the verb tense to present continuous passive.
- Option 2: "All tasks have been handled efficiently by her" is incorrect, as it changes the verb tense to present perfect passive.
- Option 3: "All tasks were handled efficiently by her" is incorrect, as it changes the verb tense to past simple passive.

The correct passive form maintains the same time reference (present simple) as the original active sentence.

Select the correct active/passive form of the given sentence.

Rahul is playing cricket in the playground provided by the government.

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

Cricket has been played by Rahul in the playground provided by the government.

Cricket is been played by Rahul in the playground provided by the government

Cricket is played by Rahul in the playground provided by the government

Cricket is being played by Rahul in the playground provided by the government.

The correct answer is:

Cricket is being played by Rahul in the playground provided by the government.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in active voice: "Rahul is playing cricket in the playground provided by the government."
- To change it to passive voice, we need to:
  - Make the object "cricket" the subject of the sentence
  - Change the verb "is playing" to "is being played" (present continuous passive)
  - Add the phrase "by Rahul" to indicate the doer of the action
- The correct sentence in passive voice is: "Cricket is being played by Rahul in the playground provided by the government."

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: "Cricket has been played by Rahul..." is incorrect, as it changes the verb tense to present perfect passive.
- Option 2: "Cricket is been played..." is incorrect, as it is grammatically incorrect (should be "is being played").
- Option 3: "Cricket is played by Rahul..." is incorrect, as it changes the verb tense to present simple passive (should be present continuous passive to match the original sentence).

The correct passive form maintains the same time reference (present continuous) as the original active sentence.

Select options correctly showing the change of voice in each given sentence; from active to passive or from passive to active.

I said to him, "Can you lend me some money?"

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

I asked him if he could lend me some money.

I asked him if he can lend me some money.

I asked him if he shall lend me some money.

I asked him if he will lend me some money.

The correct answer is:

I asked him if he could lend me some money.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in active voice and direct speech: "I said to him, 'Can you lend me some money?'"
- To change it to indirect speech and passive voice, we need to:
  - Change the reporting verb "said" to "asked"
  - Change the sentence structure to indirect speech
  - Change the verb tense to past modal "could" (to maintain the same level of politeness and possibility)
- The correct sentence in indirect speech and passive voice is: "I asked him if he could lend me some money."

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 2: "I asked him if he can lend me some money" is incorrect, as it maintains the original verb tense and does not change to past modal.
- Option 3: "I asked him if he shall lend me some money" is incorrect, as it changes the verb tense to future modal "shall" (which is not suitable in this context).
- Option 4: "I asked him if he will lend me some money" is incorrect, as it changes the verb tense to future simple "will" (which is not suitable in this context).

The correct passive form maintains the same level of politeness and possibility as the original active sentence.

Select options correctly showing the change of voice in each given sentence; from active to passive or from passive to active.

He said to her, "Did you plan to go away in summer?"

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

He asked her if she would plan to go away in summer.

He asked her if she has planned to go away in summer.

He asked her if she planned to go away in summer.

He asked her if she had planned to go away in summer.

The correct answer is:

He asked her if she had planned to go away in summer.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in active voice and direct speech: "He said to her, 'Did you plan to go away in summer?'"
- To change it to indirect speech and passive voice, we need to:
  - Change the reporting verb "said" to "asked"
  - Change the sentence structure to indirect speech
  - Change the verb tense to past perfect "had planned" (to maintain the same time reference)
- The correct sentence in indirect speech and passive voice is: "He asked her if she had planned to go away in summer."

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: "He asked her if she would plan..." is incorrect, as it changes the verb tense to future conditional.

- Option 2: "He asked her if she has planned..." is incorrect, as it changes the verb tense to present perfect.
- Option 3: "He asked her if she planned..." is incorrect, as it maintains the original verb tense (past simple) and does not change to past perfect.

The correct passive form maintains the same time reference and nuance as the original active sentence.

Select options correctly showing the change of voice in each given sentence; from active to passive or from passive to active.

The teacher told my mother that I had got good marks.

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

The teacher said to my mother, "Your son gets good marks.

None

The teacher told to my mother, "your son got good marks.

The teacher said to my mother, "Your son has got good marks.

The correct answer is:

None

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in active voice and indirect speech: "The teacher told my mother that I had got good marks."
- To change it to direct speech, we need to:
  - Change the reporting verb "told" to "said"
  - Add quotation marks and a comma

    - Change the pronoun "I" to "your son" (since the speaker is addressing the mother)

- However, none of the options correctly change the sentence to direct speech while maintaining the same verb tense and nuance.

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: "The teacher said to my mother, 'Your son gets good marks'" is incorrect, as it changes the verb tense to present simple.
- Option 3: "The teacher told to my mother, 'your son got good marks'" is incorrect, as it maintains the original reporting verb "told" and changes the verb tense to past simple.
- Option 4: "The teacher said to my mother, 'Your son has got good marks'" is incorrect, as it changes the verb tense to present perfect.

The correct direct speech form would be: "The teacher said to my mother, 'Your son had got good marks.'" (not among the options)

The correct option, converting the sentence from indirect speech to direct speech and illustrating a change of voice, is: The teacher said to my mother, "Your son has got good marks."

Here's why:

Original Sentence (Passive Voice, Indirect Speech): "The teacher told my mother that I had got good marks."

Changes Made in the Correct Option:

Reporting Verb and Structure: "The teacher told my mother that..." is transformed into the direct speech structure: "The teacher said to my mother, '...'"

Pronoun: The pronoun "I" is replaced with "Your son" to reflect the direct address to the mother.

Verb Tense: The past perfect tense ("had got") in the indirect speech is converted back to the present perfect tense ("has got") for direct speech. This accurately reflects the teacher's original statement about the son's recent achievement.

Why Other Options Are Incorrect:

The teacher said to my mother, "Your son gets good marks." This option uses the simple present tense ("gets"), which doesn't match the original sentence's emphasis on a recent accomplishment (present perfect).

None: Incorrect. There is a valid option that represents the change.

The teacher told to my mother, "Your son got good marks." This is grammatically incorrect as "told" is not followed by "to" when it has an indirect object (my mother). It should be "The teacher told my mother..." or "The teacher said to my mother..."

Key Takeaway: When converting from indirect speech to direct speech, consider:

Changes in reporting verb and structure (e.g., "told" becomes "said to").

Appropriate pronoun usage for direct address.

Verb tense adjustments to match the original meaning (in this case, present perfect for a recent accomplishment).

Let me know if you'd like me to analyze any more sentences!

Thank you for the detailed explanation. You are absolutely right, the correct answer is indeed:

"The teacher said to my mother, 'Your son has got good marks.'"

Your breakdown of the changes made to convert the sentence from indirect speech to direct speech is spot on:

- Reporting verb and structure: "told" becomes "said to"
- Pronoun: "I" becomes "Your son"
- Verb tense: past perfect ("had got") becomes present perfect ("has got")

And your analysis of why the other options are incorrect is also correct:

- Option 1: incorrect verb tense (simple present instead of present perfect)
- Option 3: grammatically incorrect (incorrect use of "told to")

I appreciate your thorough explanation and clarification. If you're ready to move on, I'd be happy to analyze more sentences with you!

Which tense is used to show the completion of an action by a certain time in the future?

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

Future perfect tense

Future continuous tense

Present indefinite tense

Future perfect continuous tense

The correct answer is:

Future perfect tense

Explanation:

- The future perfect tense is used to describe an action that will be completed by a specific point in the future.
- It is formed using the auxiliary verb "will have" + the past participle of the main verb.
- Example: "I will have finished my project by next week."

The future perfect tense indicates that an action will be completed before a specific future time, and it often emphasizes the completion of the action.

The other options are incorrect because:

- Future continuous tense (Option 2) describes an action that will be in progress at a specific point in the future.
- Present indefinite tense (Option 3) describes an action that occurs in the present, but not specifically in the future.
- Future perfect continuous tense (Option 4) describes an action that will be ongoing up to a specific point in the future, but it does not emphasize completion.

Let me know if you have any further questions!

Select options correctly showing the change of voice in each given sentence; from active to passive or from passive to active.

The teacher said, "Man is mortal".

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

The teacher said that man was mortal.

The teacher said that man is mortal.

The teacher said that man will be mortal.

The teacher said man is mortal.

The correct answer is:

The teacher said that man is mortal.

Explanation:

- The original sentence is in direct speech and active voice: "The teacher said, 'Man is mortal.'"
- To change it to indirect speech, we need to:
  - Change the reporting verb "said" to "said that"
  - Remove the quotation marks and comma
  - Maintain the same verb tense (present simple)
- The correct sentence in indirect speech and active voice is: "The teacher said that man is mortal."

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: "The teacher said that man was mortal" changes the verb tense to past simple.
- Option 3: "The teacher said that man will be mortal" changes the verb tense to future simple.
- Option 4: "The teacher said man is mortal" is grammatically incorrect (missing "that" after "said").

There is no change in voice (active to passive or vice versa) in this example, only a change from direct speech to indirect speech.

Spot the Error: We are five

Flag

Previous

Next

Answer

We are

No Error

five

both we are and five

The correct answer is:

both we are and five

Explanation:

- The subject-verb agreement is incorrect: "We" is a plural pronoun, but "are" is a singular verb.
- Additionally, "five" is a number and cannot be used as a predicate nominative to describe the subject "we".

The correct sentence would be: "We are five people" or "There are five of us".

The error is in both "we are" (subject-verb agreement) and "five" (incorrect predicate nominative).

Note: The other options are incorrect because:

- Option 1: "We are" is only half of the error.
- Option 2: "No Error" is incorrect, as there are indeed errors in the sentence.
- Option 3: "five" is only half of the error.

The error in the sentence is "We are".

Here's why:

Subject-Verb Agreement: The subject "We" implies a plural noun, usually referring to a group of people. However, the word "five" is not a noun or verb, but rather an adjective (a quantifier) describing the number of people in the group.

Correct Structure: A better way to express this would be "We are five in number" or simply, "There are five of us."

Why the other options are not the error:

No Error: There is an error, as explained above.

five: While technically not incorrect, using "five" alone without any further context is grammatically incomplete.

both we are and five: Both parts contribute to the error, but the main issue lies in the use of "we are" without a suitable noun or verb complement.

In summary, the sentence needs to be restructured to properly convey the meaning, either by adding a phrase like "in number" or using a different phrasing altogether.

Let me know if you'd like further clarification or more examples!

Thank you for the detailed explanation. You are absolutely right, the error is indeed in "We are" due to subject-verb agreement and the lack of a suitable noun or verb complement.

Your suggested corrections, "We are five in number" or "There are five of us," perfectly address the issue and provide a clear and grammatically correct way to convey the meaning.

I appreciate your breakdown of why the other options are not the error, and your summary nicely wraps up the explanation.

If you're ready to move on, I'd be happy to explore more examples and clarify any further questions!